A TESTIMONIAL FROM A FAMILY MEMBER

My husband has early onset Alzheimer's and was diagnosed 10 years ago. I took care of him for years and was happy to do it although it being extremely difficult. He is a really good person, worked as an Ironworker since teenage years and took a lot of pride in his job. He has helped literally hundreds of men and women get recovery from addiction and live a good life. He had a gift of getting people together and making them laugh even at the lowest points of their lives. When he had seizures in 2021 and ended up in the hospital I was devastated. He needed further care that I could no longer provide and came to Oddfellows in October 2021. At that point I was so sick from not caring for myself I could barely speak and cried all the time. It's very hard to give the care of a loved one over to someone else. I was able to let go enough to allow your staff to care for him while I took care of myself. The nursing staff on the first floor were very compassionate and the regular CNA's on that floor take care of him so well, I would like to say the names of them however they know who they are. The place is always clean I see the women that clean and polish the floors and they are hard workers. The maintenance staff can fix anything and they do! The girl that brings his laundry to his room is so sweet and the food is good. What I am saying is that it is a team effort and I see that and appreciate it. The Physical Therapy Dept. saved me from so much worry. Rachel is so good at her job and if not her and her team I really don't know what would have become of him. They really go above and beyond to make sure he is getting the care he needs. I can't express my gratitude enough for PT and the CNA's and nurses that work hands on with my husband. I am not great at expressing things in writing however I hope I got across how lucky Oddfellows ( and me) is to have the people they do. They all work long hard hours and I appreciate how hard the job is and I am so grateful to them all.

Thanks so much~ Patricia
